had buried their baseball proclivities in lavender, brought them forth again and sat in the grandstand and yelled as in the olden days for the home club. It was the good old times come back again. Richmond was getting better passeball, the kind Richmond incrited and deserved—that was the indusence that drew them out to the park.

Raised Chinese Plag.

But the league was not composed of ight Hichmonds. Many of the people tolding franchises expected to become the beautiful orders in the first few weeks of lay. When they found the money king out faster than it arrived in the like they began to fix the Chinese fag. Only last week each club in the league was assessed $100 to help out Washington. However, this was merely pouring water through a sieve washington was a bloomer, to indulge in the vernacular, and the few hundred dollars sent in to help out was as nothing.

ut Washington. However, this was aerely pouring water through a sieve, tashington was a bloomer, to induige a the vernacular, and the few hundred dollars sent in to help out was a nothing.

Hishmond alone, of all the cities, sintained its own and made money, very club was anxious to get here—axious not alone because of the rows which Richmond was drawing ut because the men behind the Richmond was drawing ut because the men behind the Richmond was drawing. The weakening of Cleveland broke in the beause the men behind the Richmond was drawing. The weakening of Cleveland broke is backbone of the cost.

The weakening of Cleveland broke is backbone of the organization. That it had been looked upon as a winter. The reports from out there were raiffying, it now develops that Cleveland have been a fact, and the clitics in the East were doing ust as well as the Western clitics, inally the truth became known, and onlinence was supplanted by susticed in the clitics in the East were doing that any the truth became known, and onlinence was supplanted by susticed in the clitics in the least were doing that any the truth became a fact, and then Owner Murphy pulled up takes and turned his Forest Clity agreedin loose. In Pittsburgh the men interested have considerable money involved, and Matt Henderson clief in every way possible to keep to be league intact. He was unsuccessful, and the demise is the outcome.

Rumor has it that the Western clubs will continue, taking in probably St. Louis, Cincinnati and Kansas City and maybe Milwaukee. But so far as the East is concerned, there is no United States League.

Richmond for Good Baseball.

Out of it all the one bright, gratifying thing is the fact that Richmond has proved that she can support good baseball, and that the fans are willing to pay the price. Without Richmond there would never have been a United States League. With Richmond any league can count upon a profitable city. That is the real lesson which is to be learned from the collapse of the league.

The players will probably suffer. Richmond's players will be paid in full, but Cincinnati, New York, Washington and Chicago players may have to await a better turn of fate before they sign pay silps. Nothing has been heard from Owner Neilssen, of Chicago, or from John J. Ryan, of Cincinnati, McKinnon is at a loss, and doesn't know what to do. The probability is that exhibition games will be played here in the hope that enough money will be realized to play the player. The Richmond club is composed of good was all of whom will find this of the rest of the league, Landgraf is game.

The Richmond club is composed of good men, all of whom will find jobs. Bert Blue, Patsy Bohannon, Bill Taylor, Pritz Hoffman, Tom O'Hare, Al. Newnham, Sox Seybold and Herman McFarland are all valuable men and will land easily. It is all over Richmond has had a short period of playing against teams representing real ing against teams representing real cities, and Richmond liked the medi-cine. If nothing else has been ac-complished, the United States League has taught many people how big Rich-mond really is.

Locally the death of the league will come as a keen disappointment. Fans had come to regard the league as a faxture. They gave it their support, Business men who had not visited a ball park in years were out to every same, because they knew that it was advertising Richmond. Reading to Seil Out.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Reading, Pa., May 27.—Although Reading, Pa. May 27.—Although Read

Reading would continue as a league is member, but as New York and Washington are shaky and Cleveland has quit, Witman sees the handwriting on the wall for the United States in the East, and is willing to sell out to those Western towns which are claimoring for a United States franchise.

Nothing is known here what Rich-mond contemplates doing. It is said that a millionaire brewer is behind the enterprise in St. Louis, and that the Mound City would get the Cleve-land franchise. Indianapolis and Milwaukee are slated for the berths ieft vacant by New York and Wash-ington resigning. What will become of Richmond is problematical.

CAUGHT IN LYNCHBURG

Michael Kelmer was arrested in Lynchburg yesterday for the Richmond police, who want him on a coarge of grand jarceny.

A warrant accusing Kelmer of stealing $102 was sworn out yesterday morning by the Northern Hat and Cap Company, Inc. of 709 West Broad Street, by which firm he was employed as a collector. Captain of Detectives McMainon was told that Keimer had in his possession a bill for $30 which he was to collect from a Lynchburg firm, but that developments after he left indicated that he had been collecting money here and failing to account for it.

Chief of Police Seay, of Lynchburg, was asked to look out for Kelmer, and when he went to collect the money from the Hill City concern he was nabbed by Detectives Wilson and Irvin.

STATE CONCLUDES EVIDANCE IN MYRTLE HAWKINS CASE

Hendersonville, N. C.. May T.—The State rested in the Myrtle Hawkins murder case here to-day, and the first efforts of the defense were made by attorneys for Mrs. Nora Britt and Mrs. Lizzle Shaft, seeking to prove that these women were at home the night Myrtle Hawkins disappeared. The State introduced Frank Brown, a negro preacher, and George Green, another negro, both of whom live near the McCall home. They testified to hearing screams the night Myrtle Hawkins disappeared from home. Tom Hollinsworth, who lives here, said he had a conversation with Dan McCall some time after the inquest, at which time McCall appeared worried, and asked him: "What would you do if a dead body was found on your place?" When the State rested the defense put on soveral witnesses, attempting to disparage the character of some of the State's witnesses, and also introduced Henderson Britt, husband of Nora Britt, one of the defendants, who testified that his wife was at home the night of September 7, when Miss Hawkins disappeared.
